Kim Desmarais has successfully acted as lead counsel on complex U.S. and cross-border financings across a broad range of industries for nearly two decades. She has a strong leveraged lending background and represents banks, private debt funds, commercial finance companies, other institutional lenders and borrowers/issuers in a variety of financing transactions, with a particular focus on leveraged finance, alternative lending transactions and financings in the funds sector. She has substantial experience advising clients on acquisition financings, refinancings, debt restructurings, and other secured and unsecured lending transactions. She has extensive experience advising on commercial law matters associated with secured lending and has served as secretary of the New York City Bar's Commercial Law and Uniform State Laws Committee. Kim is also co-coordinator of Jones Day's global, cross-disciplinary IBOR Transition Working Group.
